Changing Actions in a Changing Environment

April 21, 2007 12:30pm-7:30pm

About the Symposium

We find ourselves in a cultural and economic context where our everyday habits, household practices, congregational lives and business practices on the whole participate unreflectively in the gluttony of our modern hyper-consumer world. Our average consumption patterns are destructive to the environment and participate in the exploitation of our brothers and sisters around the globe. We are people from the San Diego/Tijuana region that seek to gather for the purpose of finding more hopeful ways to live in this world together.

We want to address both our choices as well as the powers that impact our choices. Personal lifestyles, households, congregations, entertainment, and workplaces are all arenas of life in which we act for sustainable patterns...or not. Public policies and economic structures (affordable housing, malls, local businesses, and more) are all powers that act upon us in our lifestyle and collective choices.
